Newry, Mourne
and Down
District Council

Are you working on a sustainability agenda in your community or workplace or do you wish you could? If so, we want to connect with you and introduce you to others prioritising this issue.

The new Newry, Mourne and Down District Council is ambitious about sustainability. To move us in the right direction we want to enter a real conversation with you about what does and doesn't work, what is happening right now, and what could happen in the future. We want to know what we can do to ensure you and others are even more successful in the future with sustainability.

It starts with communication and learning from others. We have an inspiring group of committed people coming along on the 27th April and we would love if you could make it too.

We welcome input from food and farming, green tech, business, energy, manufacturing, leisure and tourism, non-profits, environmental protection, construction, biodiversity and more.

Please pass this invite to someone you know should be there.
